CONCLUSION

I am asking you to write three love letters:
Write a love letter summarizing your experience here… to you. Take your time. Feel through it. Love you through it. Be detailed; be specific. Love you now.

Write a commitment letter to the important people in your life. Whether you choose to share it or not is up to you. What I want you to focus on is your commitment to them. To love them, support them, believe in them, teach/ guide/inspire them… for each one that you choose: spouse, child, parent, colleague, perhaps your employees or clients… tell them, as a Level 10 GVO Y… about your new awareness of you… about them (their potential, their Greatness) and your new future together. Be real. Be deep. Love them now.

The Inevitable You
Live life by design

Last, write one short letter to the Future You. Be definitive. Be strong. Be committed. Foreshadow your expectations. Reaffirm your commitment to be there. Be a leader! (Place this letter in a sealed envelope and give it to someone with instructions to mail it back to you in six months.

I love you!
From one Leader to another – Ciao!
